

PLUX

Handset

m l i t r

PLUX is a simple and original handset which is made of rubber and sits comfortably in the hand. It is delivered with a mount and easily installed. This model is recommended for listening stations in a temporary context and projects with low budgets.

Technical information The speaker is protected by a galvanized perforated sheet and has a great audio playback quality which is optimised for music and speech intelligibility. The cable is available in various lengths and can also be ordered with a soldered jack plug.

Material The rubber base material used for the casing makes PLUX break-resistant and shockproof. It is easy to clean.

Design PLUX combines brilliant functionality with a minimalist and simple design.

Service molitor offers short delivery times, its own repair service, custom-made products and a two-year guarantee.
